PLACING THE STONE ON

Marnta Wanlthlala – Placing the Stone On project aims to acknowledge past family members by placing memorial stones on unmarked burial sites.

Throughout the Pilbara, the burial sites of some Aboriginal people have not yet been marked as their final resting place. The IBN membership have asked for help to have memorial stones placed on these burial sites. This will provide healing and remembrance for their family members and communities.

The project's main aim is to identify unmarked burial sites. Priority will be given to the 'older' burials, particularly those known only by Elders. This project will pay respect to those who have passed and provide future generations with a physical link to their ancestors. It will also help document their family history for safekeeping.

If you would like to contribute to this project, please complete the registration form and return to IBN (contact details below)

- Your information will be recorded onto a register for safekeeping.
- Some of the registered sites will be selected from the register for further work.
- The memorial stones will be created and placed on the selected sites.

IMPORTANT

This pilot project will only provide a limited number of memorial stones for sites on the register. IBN will continue to record and maintain a burial site register.
